

Kathryn Linhares

As a lover of picture books and as a teacher who uses them as vehicles for learning, Kathryn Linhares believes one thing is certain: magic lives in illustrations and we can become magic-makers through art.

Many avenues have led to the point of Kathryn sharing her art with the world and wanting to create something unique. However, it is her love for picture books that never wavers. They excite the young students she has the pleasure of meeting. As a daughter, sister, and friend, the illustrations allow Kathryn to share her love and appreciation without words. As a human being and artist, illustrations remind her that making a mess is okay, there is always reason to smile, and the impossible is possible.

Kathryn invites viewers to look through her paintings. She hopes that the patterns and colors will take viewers to a place without limits, where everything matches and dreams become reality. Everyone needs a little magic in their life!
